HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENTS

Robert Bullard (Commencement speaker), the “Father of Environmental Justice,” is the Distinguished Professor of Urban Planning and Environmental Policy at Texas Southern University, where he founded and directs the Bullard Center for Environmental and Climate Justice. He is also co-founder of the HBCU Climate Change Consortium and the National Black Environmental Justice Network, and in 2021 he was appointed by President Biden to serve on the White House Environmental Justice Advisory Council. Dr. Bullard has published 18 books that address environmental racism, urban land use, housing, transportation, sustainability, smart growth, climate justice, and community resilience.

In April, TIME magazine presented Dr. Bullard with a 2024 TIME Earth Award, given to individuals who influence the future of the planet through their work on climate justice, awareness, and activism.

Newsweek named Dr. Bullard one of “13 Environmental Leaders of the Century” in 2008, and in 2019 Apolitical named him one of the world’s 100 Most Influential People in Climate Policy. He has received numerous awards and honors, including the Stephen H. Schneider Award for Outstanding Climate Science Communication from Climate One; the WebMD Health Heroes Trailblazer Award; the Champions of the Earth Lifetime Achievement Award from the United Nations Environment Program; and the Lifetime Achievement Award from the Association for the Advancement of Sustainability in Higher Education. In 2023, Dr. Bullard was inducted into the American Academy of Arts and Sciences as well as the California Academy of Sciences and received the Horizon Award from the Environmental Law Society at Harvard Law School and the John E. Gould Medal from the American Geographical Society.

Dr. Bullard earned his doctorate in sociology from Iowa State University, his master’s in sociology from Clark Atlanta University, and his bachelor’s in government from Alabama A&M University.

Sean B. Carroll is the Distinguished University Professor and Balo-Simon Chair of Biology at the University of Maryland and an investigator with the Howard Hughes Medical Institute (HHMI). An award-winning author, Emmy-winning film producer, and educational leader who has been called “the greatest science storyteller of our time,” he is the author of six books for general audiences, as well as a regular feature for The New York Times Science Times, and in 2016 received the Lewis Thomas Prize for Writing about Science.

Dr. Carroll’s pioneering scientific research has centered on the genes that control animal body patterns and play major roles in the evolution of animal diversity. Awards and honors include the Benjamin Franklin Medal in Life Sciences, the Stephen Jay Gould Prize for the advancement of the public understanding of evolution, and the Viktor Hamburger Outstanding Educator Prize from the Society for Developmental Biology, among others. He is an elected member of the National Academy of Sciences, the American Philosophical Society, the European Molecular Biology Organization, as well as a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Carroll was also the architect of HHMI’s filmmaking initiative to bring stories about science and nature to broad audiences, and head of Tangled Bank Studios until late 2023, where he served as executive producer of nearly 50 feature or educational films. He earned his doctorate in immunology from Tufts University Medical School, and his bachelor’s in biology from Washington University in St. Louis.

Akiko Iwasaki is the Sterling Professor of Immunobiology at the Yale University School of Medicine. Her research focuses on the mechanisms of immune defense against viruses at mucosal surfaces, which are a major site of entry for infectious agents.

She has been a leading scientific voice throughout the COVID-19 pandemic and is well known for her Twitter advocacy on women and underrepresented minorities in the science and medicine fields. She is the director of the Center for Infection and Immunity and is at the forefront of several long COVID investigations, including the Mount Sinai-Yale Long COVID study, Yale LISTEN study, and Yale Paxlovid trial. She was named to the 2023 STATUS ultimate list of leaders in life sciences.

In April, TIME magazine named Dr. Iwasaki one of the “Top 100 Most Influential People of 2024.” She received the Else Kröner Fresenius Prize for Medical Research in 2023, and has been a Howard Hughes Medical Institute Investigator since 2014. She was elected to the National Academy of Sciences in 2018, to the National Academy of Medicine in 2019, and to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 2021.

She received her doctorate in immunology from the University of Toronto and completed her postdoctoral training with the National Institutes of Health before joining Yale’s faculty in 2000.

Michel Nischan is a four-time James Beard Award-winning chef with more than 40 years of leadership advocating for a more healthful, sustainable food system and championing the farm-to-table concept, even before it had a name. He is co-founder and executive chairman of Wholesome Wave, founder and CEO of Wholesome Crave, and founder and partner of the former Dressing Room Restaurant with the late actor Paul Newman.

In 2007, Mr. Nischan and former USDA Undersecretary of Agriculture Gus Schumacher co-founded Wholesome Wave, a national nonprofit established on the belief that choosing healthy food is a fundamental right for everyone, regardless of race, age, ethnicity, income, or location. He has regularly presented and testified in both houses of Congress, and was a White House guest during the Bush, Obama, and Biden administrations. He was also a stakeholder member of the Biden-Harris Transition team and was invited to participate in the White House Conference on Hunger, Health, and Nutrition. In 2019, Mr. Nischan founded Wholesome Crave, a plant-based food company that provides chef-crafted, plant-based soups to the corporate, higher education, and health care food-service sectors. A percentage of gross revenue sales directly supports Wholesome Wave’s groundbreaking work toward meaningful systems change.

A lifetime Ashoka fellow, Mr. Nischan serves on the board of the Jacques Pepin Foundation and is co-founder of the James Beard Chefs Boot Camps for Policy and Change. He was honored by the James Beard Foundation as the 2015 Humanitarian of The Year for his groundbreaking work with Wholesome Wave.

COMMENCEMENT NOTES

Clark University was founded in 1887, one of the first all-graduate institutions in America; the undergraduate college was established in 1902. During the early years of the University, graduate degrees were awarded on an individual basis. Formal commencement exercises began at Clark in June 1905, when bachelor's degrees were awarded for the first time and President Theodore Roosevelt delivered the Commencement address.

The colorful academic apparel worn at inaugurations, convocations, and commencement ceremonies has its origins in the Middle Ages, when scholars at European universities wore hoods and gowns as their daily attire.

The hood was originally used as a cowl, cape, and, when hung from the shoulder, a sack to collect alms. Legend has it that when large wigs were in vogue, the cape section of the hood was cut open and a narrow neckband was inserted in the front — the hood style we use today.

American academic fashion comes mainly from the gowns worn at Oxford University. The earliest bachelor's hoods were lined with fur; in the summer, noblemen and masters wore hoods with miniver or silk linings.

The mortarboard cap's origins, however, are unclear. Some believe it is shaped to resemble a book; others claim the cap is patterned to resemble the mortarboards of master craftsmen or the quadrangle of the Oxford campus.

Caps and gowns have been worn at American universities since colonial times, but it was not until 1885 that they became customary at commencements. By 1895, a code for academic costume was established for colleges and universities in the U.S., with academic attire reflecting the level of an individual's degree and the institution granting that degree.

Gowns for the three levels of degrees are distinguished mainly by sleeve length. For example, the doctor's gown features large, bell-shaped sleeves with three velvet crossbars on the upper portion of the arm and velvet trim down the gown's front. The hood indicates the level of degree attained, the academic field, and granting institution. The color of the hood's lining identifies the institution conferring the degree.

Clark's doctoral robes are emerald green with gold University seals on the lapels. These complement the traditional doctoral hoods, which reflect the University's graduate colors: white and emerald. The hoods worn by undergraduates reflect the official colors of the College: white and scarlet. The hood worn by the President of the University includes both emerald and scarlet, signifying that the University and the College are one.

Gowns worn by undergraduate students who receive their degrees with honors through the Undergraduate College include a gold cord.

During Commencement weekend, Clark University is proud to display the flags of many nations, and the United Nations, on our campus to celebrate the diversity of our students. With students from more than 70 countries in attendance at Clark and members of the faculty involved in research, training, and development around the world, Clark's international character is evident and is honored with this display.
