

Election 2024: A Conversation with the Political Science Department

Join the Political Science Department for a chance to look past the punditry and understand how scholars are analyzing the 2024 presidential election. Clark's Political Science faculty will interpret the widespread debates over gender, immigration, climate change, civil rights, and more. We'll also discuss global implications of the election, from Latin America to Asia to the Middle East and beyond.

THURSDAY
OCT. 31, 2024
NOON – 1:00PM

JEFF 320

Co-sponsored by the Political Science Department through the Francis A. Harrington Public Affairs Fund and the Office of the Provost

PRICE OF ADMISSION:

One question (or more) you've been wanting and waiting to ask about the election!

HALLOWEEN CANDY WILL BE PROVIDED!